Western Dressage Association® Of America Adds Featured Blogger, Dr. James Warson

Parker, Colorado – The Western Dressage Association® of America (WDAA) is proud to announce that Dr. James Warson, well respected physician, neurosurgeon, equestrian medicine specialist and WDAA Advisory Board member is joining their team of featured bloggers. Dr. Warson will be headlining a column titled “The Doctor Is In”. This column is unique to the WDAA offerings as Dr. Warson will be answering rider related medical questions from members with postings featured in the WDAA Social Corral.

The WDAA is excited to share this opportunity for its members to interact with Dr. Warson. Questions can be submitted to him via his email DoctorJim@westerndressageassociation.org. Topics are open to all things related to the health and well-being of riders, with some highlighted specializations including persons returning from disease, retaining riding ability through aging, and diagnosing, preventing and treating medial disorders commonly associated with equestrian activity.

Dr. Warson has a wonderful history in the equine industry. He has taken part in numerous facets of the equine industry from show barn management to appraisal, breeding and informational services. He is a staple of the Morgan breed and the former co-director of the Circle J futurity. Dr. Warson is also the proud owner of Galahad Golden Warrior; the second recognized Western Dressage horse in the world.

Dr. Warson’s amazing resume extends far beyond the many equine events he had assisted. He is a neurosurgeon and member and contributor to the American Medical Equestrian Association. He developed analytics for the evaluation for riders based on muscular function, dysfunction, analysis, and therapy. His expertise has been sought by equine business like ThinLine LLC and Human Condition LLC as well as the National Collegiate Equestrian Association and advised on the US Paralympic Equestrian Association. His clinics are informational and insightful with riders coming away with a fresh and enlightened perspective.

To find out more about Dr. Warson and his amazing knowledge, experiences and background, the WDAA encourages you to visit his biography at <http://www.westerndressageassociation.org/board-of-directors/advisory-directors/dr-james-s-warson-md-facs/> . For even more time with Dr. Warson, join the WDAA as a member in the Social Corral for his sessions “The Doctor Is In”.
